LOCKERBY ALUMNI REFLECTIONS

I attended Lockerby Composite School from grades 10-12 and graduated in 2011. Lockerby prepared me incredibly well both academically and athletically for my post-secondary school experience, during which I attended Laurentian University and competed for the Cross-country and Track team. I completed my undergraduate degree in Biomedical Biology, and was subsequently accepted into the Northern Ontario School of Medicine. I am now currently in my second year of medical school, and loving every moment of it. Some of my accomplishments of which I am proud include being a five-time CIS Academic-All Canadian, being awarded a GenNext Volunteer award, receiving MVP for both Track and Field and Cross-Country during my athletic career at Laurentian, competing for Team Ontario in the Canada Summer Games, and finally, being accepted into medical program that will allow me to pursue the career of my dreams. I attribute much of my work ethic to my secondary school experience at Lockerby, wherein I was surrounded by like-minded and driven individuals, and where I was offered numerous incredible experiences, such as participating and helping organize the Cancer Drive, and being coached by passionate and caring coaches in various sports.
