Lockerby Composite School's weekly news on Viking academics, events, extra-curriculars, and more!

MICRO- AND MACRO- ORGANISMS

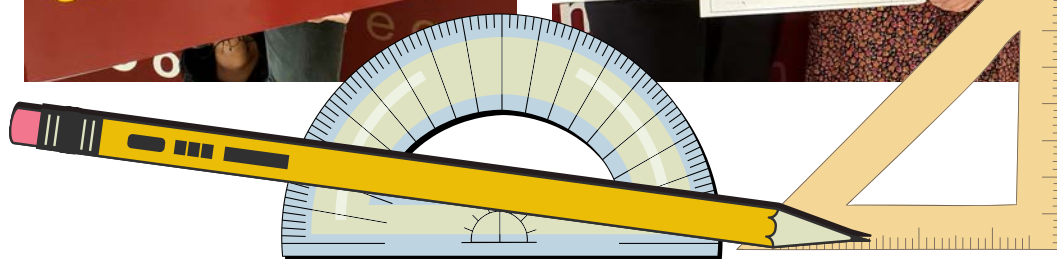

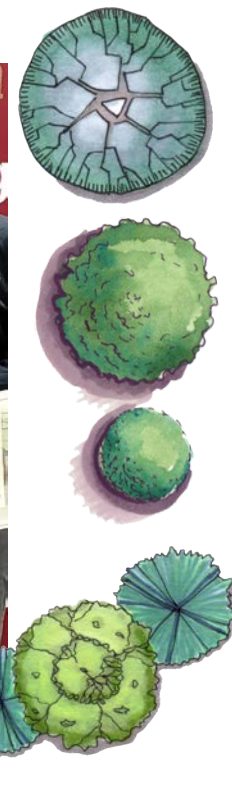

Viking biologists had a busy week examining the diversity of life - both micro- and macro-organisms! We observed a variety of live protists using microscopes, and also examined their responses to stimuli like food. Turns out that Paramecia enjoy dining on yeast, and everyone was able to see the yeast being swept into the cell with its cilia. Amoeba, on the other hand, seem to love eating other protists. Thomas managed to get a pretty great photo on his phone of an Amoeba eating a Euglena! The drama!

The snow also did not stop our intrepid biologists from feeding our feathered friends! A group of students are hoping to view some birds during spring migration, and are filling-up the bird feeders outside of our biology classroom - we are now ready for the influx of sparrows and finches!
